"Kiso-Ro route runs through the mountains – We live in and protect the mountains"

History of Preserving Narai-juku

The beautiful Kiso road with its Narai-juku Historic Post Town

During the Edo Period (1600-1860) the Kiso road was one of the main roads linking the former capital of Edo (now Tokyo) and Kyushu. The eleven small villages along the Kiso road are well-known sightseeing spots.

Particularly in Narai-juku, the area of the old street in the area has been maintained and the house-building using unique local techniques are of historical and academic value. Visit this small village in the mountains and feel the atmosphere of old Japan.

History of Narai-juku

Narai-juku, a picturesque post town along the Kiso road, was designated in 1993 as a National Treasure by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology. The street village was born due to the development of the Kiso River, which flows through the area. The area was developed as a post town for travelers and merchants during the Edo period. The area was designated as a National Treasure in 1993 due to its historical importance.

The Narai-juku Tourist Association

Narai-juku, Toji-cho, Nagano Prefecture

http://www.narai-juku.com/

Narai-juku is a beautiful historical town located in the central part of Nagano Prefecture, Japan. It is known for its well-preserved traditional buildings and charming streets. The town was designated as a National Treasure in 1993 and it is a popular destination for tourists.

To help you plan your visit, please check the Narai-juku Tourist Association's website for more information and updates.